

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and system are disclosed for communication within a TDMA based system. The system may include one or more receivers, each receiver being configurable in a plurality of states, wherein in each state the physical layer headers associated with received frames of information are used to determine the format in which the received frames of information are to be decoded.

5